Amazing works of art using only a magnifying glass and sunlight

Dear Friend,

I am writing to you today with a sense of urgency and a desire to share with you about the life lived, the work accomplished, and the legacy created by Father Emmett Hoffmann, O.F.M., a member of the Poor Clares of Marymount.

Father Emmett’s life was unique, filled with moments of joy, hardship, and sacrifice. He was a man of great character and compassion, dedicated to serving his community and his faith. His work was not easy, but it was necessary, and he did it with grace and dignity.

In 1931, Father Emmett continued his work by reaching out to the children of Oklahoma, Indian Territory, who were suffering from malnutrition. He and his colleagues set up a settlement near the Indian Reservation to provide food and shelter to the children. They worked tirelessly to ensure that the children were well cared for and had a chance to thrive.

However, their efforts were not met with lenient treatment. The U.S. military, who did not understand the need for compassion, arrested Father Emmett and his colleagues. They were charged with treason and faced the possibility of being shot down and killed.

Thankfully, Father Emmett was just in time to take part in the repatriation of the children. He was able to free them from their imprisonments and help them make their way back to their families.

Father Emmett’s legacy lives on in the memories of those who knew him and in the stories that are told about his life. He was a man of great faith and a champion of justice. He is an inspiration to us all.

Donald Hoffmann, grandson of Father Emmett

Christmas Memories 2005

I don’t let Christmas geçen the year like I have been without doing some of the things we did when I was a young child. Christmas never really meant Christmas to me until I was introduced to it by my mother. I was always very much aware of the Christmas tree, the lights, the decorations, and the cards. But it wasn’t until I was in my early 20s that I truly appreciated the beauty of the season.

I have always enjoyed the tradition of exchanging gifts. It is a way to show love and appreciation for those we care about. But it is more than that. It is a way to connect with others and to create a sense of community. Christmas is a time to come together and to be grateful for what we have.

I like to spend Christmas with my family. We usually have a big dinner and then spend the evening together. It is a time to reflect on the past year and to look forward to the new one.

But Christmas is more than just a time for family. It is a time for giving. It is a chance to make a difference in the lives of others. I like to think of Christmas as a time to give back.

It is a time to remember those who are less fortunate. It is a time to help those in need. And it is a time to make a difference.

I hope that everyone has a wonderful Christmas this year. May your holidays be filled with love, joy, and peace.

I don’t let our Christmas tradition die each year. My kids are always without dressing up as Santa Claus or other Christmas elves closely tied to Christmas tradition such as the Krampus, a medieval European Christmas character that represents the dark side of Christmas.

Dad found, he said to Steve and Betty, that in the days before, when they were young, he and they had a dream about the land they had come to love and that he had died in. It had been a dream he had kept hidden from his family, from the church, from the world. For years, Dad had struggled with guilt over what he had done, over the lives he had taken, over the pain he had caused. But now, as he lay there, dying, he could no longer keep it hidden.

Dear Frieda,

I hope this finds you well. I have some news to share with you about my trip to the Heritage Living Center in the Soaring Eagle Heritage Living Center. I was there for three days and nights, staying at the lobby entrance, above the front doors, we have a room with a view. In that room, I could see the lobby entrance, above the front doors, and the surrounding pine-hills. It was a beautiful view.
